Not illustrated. 1841 Excerpt: .foreign vessels, as no striking advantages offered to turn the tide of Dutch capital into the line of ship-building for India. This foreign carrying trade with one of their own colonies was naturally regarded with a jealous eye by the Netherlands, who were at that time not in the enjoyment of the treaty of reciprocity which Mr. Huskisson brought about. To the extent, therefore, of a few return-freights to Europe, and no further, did Java profit from the aid of British capital; whereas, had we admitted the sugar and coffee of the island at a fair duty, we should have insured a larger market for our manufactured goods, and have only hastened the crisis to which the West Indies under their unnatural system were tottering. A state-paper submitted to the States-General assembled at Brussels in 1825, shows the East Indian revenue and expenditure since the restoration to have been as follows: --The revenue of Java during the last year of Sir S. Raffles s administration only amounted to 7j500,000 rupees, or about 9,400,000 florins, while the expenditure was about 11,200,000 florins; but in this estimate no account is taken of the Spice Islands, and the government carried on no trade; whereas the Dutch estimates are principally swelled by the supposed value of the productions shipped on government account on the one side, and by the cost of cultivation and European wares and the specie sent from Holland on the other. The apparent increase here noticeable in...
